

Labor United For Class Struggle sends greetings to the second congress of the League of Young Communists. We are living through a new renaissance of labor organization which young workers are leading. For several decades the bosses have used neoliberalism, a death grip on the workers throats, to enrich themselves to levels exceeding even the decadence of the Robber Barons in the so-called gilded age. And today we find ourselves in yet another era of gross concentrations of wealth where the rich live in opulence, taking joy rides into space, while their workers struggle to make ends meet, secure permanent housing, and afford basic medical care. Year after year the American worker has become poorer and poorer. Year after year the workers of our country have been sent to die in wars of plunder abroad, to be forgotten when maimed, and now we stand at the precipice of a new war whose dimensions are still unknown but point towards global conflict and the resurgence of fascism, the likes of which we have not seen since WWII. It is in this context and turbulent period of history that the American and global working class struggles to organize itself against these immense threats to humanity. Similar to 80 years ago when fascism and its attacks on working class institutions threatened the world, the workers must roll their sleeves up and organize themselves to confront the boss' war on them. Which is why Labor United For Class Struggle congratulates the continued development of young militant brothers and sisters fighting for a better world. All wealth is the fruit of Labor, meaning a world without workers is impossible, but a world without capitalism is necessary!
